

CORPORAL DEREK L. DELOATCH SR.

The Coalition for Public Safety Training in Schools, Inc.

Corporal (CPL) Derek L. Deloatch Sr. has twenty years of experience in Law Enforcement. CPL. Deloatch is a Baltimore native and received his education from Baltimore City Public Schools. In 1993 after graduating from high school, CPL. Deloatch began working as a security officer to prepare himself for the Law Enforcement work field. In 2001 he started his first job as a Deputy Sheriff with the Baltimore City Sheriff's office, from there he proceeded to join the Baltimore City Police Academy.

In 2003, CPL. Deloatch began working for the Baltimore City School Police (BCSP), where he served diligently for the next seven years. While working for BCSP he became a Field Training Officer (FTO) and gained his certification as a Police Instructor through the Maryland Police Training Commission (MPTC).

After serving Baltimore City schools, CPL. Deloatch started working for the Aberdeen Police Department in Harford County, Maryland. During his tenure, CPL. Deloatch was assigned to the patrol division, where he had the opportunity to gain training and experience in areas such as interview and interrogation while assigned to the county Drug Task Force, standardized field sobriety test, preliminary breath testing, radar operator, mountain bike cyclist, and SWAT operator.

In 2016, CPL. Deloatch began working with Anne Arundel County Police Department, where he served as a patrol officer in the Western District division. In 2018, CPL. Deloatch decided he wanted to broaden his horizon and took a position with the School Resource Officer (SRO) unit, where he is currently serving as one of the officers at Meade High School, located in Anne Arundel County Maryland.

CPL. Deloatch has a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice from Central State University. He is also a member of the National Honors Society.
